Dr. DeMarco grew up around the Kansas City area, graduating from Liberty High School and attending Truman State University for his undergraduate training. In May of 2009 he completed his doctorate degree in veterinary medicine from the University of Missouri in Columbia, MO.

He has loved caring for animals since he was a child. When he began working at a veterinary clinic in Liberty, MO, his interest was sparked in the field of veterinary medicine. Throughout undergrad he continued to work in veterinary clinics and animal shelters.

Dr. DeMarco has a strong interest in client education and preventative medicine. Other interests include soft tissue and orthopedic surgeries, dental education, and the human-animal bond.

Dr. DeMarco lives in Lees Summit, MO with his brother who is in medical school. Dr. DeMarco has 3 dogs - Casey, Cooper, and Abby - 1 fish, 1 gerbil, and 5 chinchillas. His other interests include basketball, baseball, volleyball, football, golf...pretty much any sport. He also enjoys hanging out with friends, taking the dogs to the park, and relaxing!!!
